Annual Report
Centre for Reformation and Renaissance Studies

2007–2008
Another year of great activity has been completed at the CRRS showing stability in a few areas of its operations and also notable growth in many others. Two general observations to be made at the outset: overall attendance at our events has increased again this year as has the amount of funding received from donations and other external sources.

It has been an especially busy year for Programs. In addition to the 43rd Erasmus lecture, delivered in October 2007 by Ramón Mujica Pinilla (National University of San Marcos, Lima, Peru) and titled “Negotiating Redemption: Art, Angels, and Apocalypse in Early Modern Spain and Vice-Regal Peru”, the Centre received two Distinguished Visiting Professors in the academic year 2007-08--an anomaly caused by the later scheduling of the first DVP’s visit. In May 2007 John Najemy (History, Cornell University) lectured on Machiavelli and in March 2008 Leslie Pierce (History and Middle East & Islamic Studies, New York University) spoke on topics pertaining to the Ottoman Empire. Her visit was of particular interest attracting many Toronto faculty and students in History and Near Eastern studies who had not previously attended CRRS events.

A major SSHRC-funded international conference on “Faith and Fantasy in the Early Modern World” was held in October 2007. Organized principally by Olga Pugliese and Matt Kavaler, it drew 55 speakers some coming from Asia, Eastern Europe, and South America as well as Canada and the USA.

Other activities for the year included a total of nine Friday workshops, one in French. There were good turnouts for these events, including the workshop on Montaigne conducted in French. The Renaissance Spring Festival organized again by Manuela Scarci in May and June of 2007 was quite extraordinary including among its events six concerts of early music performed to full houses at the Four Seasons Centre for the Performing Arts in the Richard Bradshaw Amphitheatre, which seats 200. The second annual concert in honour of William Bowen was held in October 2007 with the performance of ballads by Giordano Dall’Armellina, who was accompanied by the violinist Maurizio Dehò, and whose visit was sponsored by the Istituto Italiano di Cultura Toronto.

2007-08 was an especially productive year from the point of view of Publications as well. Seven titles appeared in the Essays and Studies series edited by Konrad Eisenbichler and one volume was published in the Barnabe Riche Publications Series too edited by Don Beecher. While the subscription to two of our journals (Early Theatre and Confraternitas) remained steady, it increased in the case of Renaissance and Reformation/ Renaissance et Réforme.

The Library, at the heart of the Centre, continued to grow. Important new acquisitions of rare books included several Erasmus editions, an illustrated Ovid, and plays by Ludovico Dolce. It should be noted that a high number of titles was added to the collection through generous donations. The number of patrons and the number of rare books and microforms being consulted increased, proving that the Centre continues to be of significant use to local and outside scholars. Indeed it has continued to attract a good number of postdoctoral fellows and other associates who carry out their research in our library.

This was the fourth year since the Renaissance Studies Undergraduate Program came under the wing of the CRRS and since the Specialist program was introduced. There has been a doubling of enrolment in the Major and Minor programs and, in spite of some capping, course enrolments have increased and new courses have been introduced. The Coordinator, Nicholas Terpstra, has been pursuing some partnerships that could enable our students to participate in programs overseas. The privately endowed Olga and Guido Pugliese Scholarship in Italian Renaissance Studies should be available for study in Italy in the 2009-10 academic year.

Graduate student staffing for the library, and for work on publications and on the Iter online bibliographical project—which, it should be noted, recorded its millionth entry in August 2007—has seen both needed continuity and welcome renewal, with many fellows remaining for successive years and other new recruits being welcomed.

During the past year the CRRS continued to collaborate with international associations, sponsoring sessions at the conference of the Renaissance Society of America held in Chicago in April 2007. Centre outreach has been maintained by means of its widely circulated Newsletter (with issues published in May and September 2007, and in February 2008), its frequent communication with the addressees on an extensive e-mail list, the web site, and now Facebook too.

The work of the Centre continues to enjoy the much appreciated support of Chief Librarian Robert Brandeis, Principal David Cook, and President Paul Gooch. I’d also like to express my sincere thanks to the members of all the committees, and especially to the Assistant to the Director, Dr. Kimberley Yates, who, after six years of invaluable service, prepares to leave the CRRS for a position at the Jackman Humanities Institute.

Respectfully submitted,

Olga Pugliese, Director,

G.3 Description of Program

Renaissance Studies is an interdisciplinary undergraduate program offered at Specialist, Major and Minor levels by Victoria University. Students are required to complete courses in Renaissance Studies along with courses from participating departments. These additional participating courses are divided into three concentrations: Language & Literature, Economics & History, and Art & Music. In 2007-2008, nine departments offered a total of 67 possible participating courses.

G.4 Renaissance Students’ Association

The Renaissance Students’ Association (RSA) is a Victoria University student organization that manages a mailing list, sends out event announcements, organizes events, and advocates on behalf of its members. The Program Co-ordinator, Professor Nicholas Terpstra, provides faculty guidance; the CRRS provides funding and logistical assistance. In 2007-2008 the RSA was jointly chaired by Priscilla MacAuliffe and Elizabeth Pulickeel.
